

School of Vocational Studies Orientation Programme 2025–26

The School of Vocational Studies (SVS), Dr. B. R. Ambedkar University Delhi, organized its Orientation Programme for the newly admitted students of the 2025–26 batch across BVoc and M.Voc programmes, including Accounting & Finance, Retail Management, ECCME, and Tourism & Hospitality. The programme aimed at familiarizing students with the university's academic environment, support systems, and opportunities for holistic growth.

The event commenced with a welcome address by Prof. S. S. Jena, Dean, SVS, who introduced the vision and ethos of the university. This was followed by the introduction of faculty and staff by Dr. Priya Singh, setting the tone for academic collaboration and mentorship.

Students were given an overview of the academic programmes by Ms. Fariha Siddiqui, while Mr. Akha K. Mao highlighted the student support mechanisms, including scholarships, library facilities, IT resources, and placement support. Dr. Sunita Bhadwar apprised students of the various co-curricular and extracurricular opportunities, including CCA activities, NSS, NCC, and student societies.

Sessions led by Dr. Renu Ghosh (Internal Complaints Committee), Dr. Nikhil Singh Charak (Equal Opportunity Office), and Dr. Rekha Gulia (Assessment and Promotion Policy) provided students with essential insights into institutional policies. Dr. Vikas Mohan explained the functioning of disciplinary committees, including Anti-Ragging and Proctorial Committees, ensuring awareness about student conduct and responsibilities.

Further, Dr. Neelu Verma elaborated on seminars, special lectures, and IT services, while Dr. Rajinder Kumar introduced the General Elective Courses (GECs) that broaden the academic scope of students.

Post-lunch, students attended programme-specific orientations in their respective classrooms, where they engaged with faculty members to understand course structures, practical training opportunities, and career pathways.

The event witnessed the enthusiastic participation of over 100 newly admitted students, reflecting the growing appeal of vocational education at AUD. The orientation not only provided clarity on academic and administrative processes but also instilled a sense of belonging and motivation among the freshers to begin their educational journey with confidence.
