International Mother Language Day

On

20 February 2026, Friday,
1:30 pm – 3:30 pm, CR-11, Kashmere Gate Campus

The UN declared International Mother Language Day is observed every year on 21 February to promote linguistic and cultural diversity and multiculturalism.

The Centre for Research Methods (CRM) at AUD is organizing an event on 20th Feb. 2026 (Friday) at KG Campus to observe the International Mother Language Day, which is celebrated worldwide to mark the significance of mother tongue in preserving and sustaining cultural identity and the rich tapestry of heritage.

Language plays critical role in cognitive development, communication, social integration and co-existence. The linguistic and cultural diversity of India is well-known and therefore, it is an occasion not only to celebrate the rich diversity of the land but the idea is also to highlight the significance of regional-vernacular languages in the study of social sciences.

On this occasion, AUD students/faculty can come together to share their thoughts and express themselves in mother-tongue in the form of poetry recitation, songs-performances, short narratives, etc.

The event will have a brief discussion session on the importance of language in doing field based social science research by Dr Amit Singh (AUD), who specializes in Folk-lore Studies.
